

THE BALKANS, QUESTIONS OF SECURITY AND GEOPOLITICS

XHAVIT SHALA

BALKANI
GJEOPOLITIKA
DHE SIGURIA

I

FORWARD

Dear reader,

The writing of any book, however simple that it may be, is the finalization of not only years of hard work but also the crowing of great emotions experienced by those who have the great fortune of having their works assessed by other readers. I am hopeful that this publication will pass the test of truth, the test of your objective judgment and opinion.

It is several years now that I have worked on writing articles, studies and books on issues of national and regional security. Following this experience, I felt for some time the need to write a full work in the field of geopolitics and security for Southeastern Europe. I hope that the book you hold in your hand may serve as a key to finding the explanation not only to what has happened in the Balkans in the past but also to identifying the prognosis about the future on the basis of multifaceted analyses and studies.

The book has made use of multiple sources and taken under consideration a number of facts and developments that cast light on geopolitics and intrigues in the Balkans, the role of the great powers and the international community in these developments and the place occupied by the Albanian issue in these developments.

The book will serve as a text for students of political sciences, international relations and security studies. I am confident that the book will also serve as an important piece of literature for any one interested in conducting studies or wanting to learn more about development in the Balkan region.

This publication is divided in 17 chapters that cover specific subjects. Such a structuring follows not only a logical line but will also be helpful to readers and researchers. In its current form, the book is also suitable for university audiences and for teaching.

A whole chapter is devoted to presenting the concepts and a historic treatment of geopolitics, geo-strategy and security, the evolution of these concepts and contemporary positions on these subjects. The book then analyses conflicts in the Balkans, geopolitics and regional security up to the end of the cold war. The third chapter looks the process of dissolution of Yugoslavia, the creation of independent states and its impact on the regional security environment and geopolitics. A special chapter is devoted to the 1997 crises in Albania, the internal and external factors that contributed to it and the impact it had on our national and regional security.

The fifth, sixth and seventh chapter will acquaint readers with Albanian-related geopolitical issues in the Balkans. Special consideration is given to the Albanian national issue and national security policies to resolve it. The book also analyses the issue of Kosova. It does this by looking at the century-old Serb genocide aimed at changing by force the Albanian presence in Kosova; NATO's intervention and international administration, the creation of the independent state of Kosova, the impact of this development in regional geopolitics and challenges that accompany it. In this chapter readers will also get a picture of the origin and dynamic of the inter-ethnic conflict in Macedonia, the Ohrid agreement and the challenges that this issue presents for regional security.

Due to the role it has played in developments in the Balkans and its importance for regional security, the book also looks closely at a number of other issues, including the religious landscape in the Balkans and its impact on regional security; minorities and the importance of respecting human rights; international terrorism and its impact on regional security and geopolitics; organized crime as a player with experience in regional developments and the threat it presents to national and regional security.

Chapters in the book put forth the thesis that only the process of Euro-Atlantic integration, namely NATO and EU integration of the countries of the region, will provide the key to healing the wounds of the region. Special attention is given to the role of regional cooperation and joint security measures as the new security vision for South East Europe. Such measures can be reflected in inter-border cooperation, integrated border management and the role these measures will have on regional security and NATO and EU integration..

One chapter is devoted to analyzing the role played by Russia in the region, Russia's relation with and its influence on regional security and geopolitics in the Balkans. In addition to the issues specifically mentioned above, the book also examines a great number of other issues that are related to and affect our national security and regional geopolitics.

In closing, I feel greatly indebted and would like to thank a number of colleagues and friends. I would like to thank Fredi, Iliri, Krenari, Bujari, professor Ismet, professor Vasillaq for their advice and encouragement. I would also like to mention in particular the work carried out by the editor of this publication, Mr. Nexhat Myftiu as well as the great work carried by my wife, Aida, who is the first reader, editor and critic of all the chapters in this book.

The Author

THE BALKANS, QUESTIONS OF SECURITY AND GEOPOLITICS;

PART I

CHAPTER I

BACKGROUND AND MEANING OF GEOPOLITICS, GEOSTRATEGY, AND SECURITY. THE EVOLUTION OF THE CONCEPT AND CONTEMPORARY VIEWS

- I.1. Geopolitics. Its definition and field of study.
- I.2. Geostrategy, its meaning and relation with geopolitics
- I.3. The evolution of positions on geopolitics and geostrategy.
- I.4. The main geopolitical schools.
- I.5. Factors influencing geopolitics and geostrategy
- I.6. Security, national security, collective security, and public security.
National Security Policies.

CHAPTER II

CONFLICTS IN THE BALKANS, GEOPOLITICS AND REGIONAL SECURITY UP TO THE END OF COLD WAR

- II.1. "The Balkans" a.k.a. "Southeast Europe"
- II.2. The Treaty of Saint Stephan of March 3, 1878; the Congress of Berlin, June 13-July 13, 1878; the London Conference, January, 1913; the impact of these developments on geopolitics and security in Southeast Europe.
- II.3. WWI, geopolitics and security in the Balkans.
- II.4. The Paris Peace Conference, regional geopolitical and security changes in between the two world wars.
- II.5. The Balkans as an area of significant geostrategic interest for Germany and Italy.
- II.6. Geopolitical developments in the Balkans during the WW2.
- II.7. Geopolitical and Security Developments in the Balkans up to the end of the Cold War
- II.8. The Cold War, Regional geopolitics and Albania.

CHAPTER III

THE DISINTEGRATION OF YUGOSLAVIA, THE CREATION OF INDEPENDENT STATES AND ITS IMPACT ON THE REGIONAL SECURITY ENVIRONMENT

- III.1. The first Yugoslavia, the interests of the Great power and the role of this new state in regional security and geopolitics.
- III.2. The second Yugoslavia, the rise and fall, and its role in the Balkans.
- III.3. An Obituary to the Second Yugoslavia; factors that accelerated its dissolution. Its impact on the regional security environment.
- III.4. Yugoslavia III, the Bosnia crises and the failure of European security policies.
- III.5. The impact of these wars on the regional security environment.

CHAPTER IV

1997 CRISES IN ALBANIA UNDERLYING CAUSES AND ITS IMPACT ON SECURITY

- IV.1. The Crises of 1997. A chronology of events and the fall of the Albanian state
- IV.2. the factors that lead to the crises of 1997.
 - IV.2. 1. Domestic factors.
 - IV.2. 2 -Foreign factors.
- IV.3. The Albanian Crises, geopolitics and regional security.
- IV.4. The Albanian national Issue and the crises of 1997.

CHAPTER V

THE SERB GENOCIDE IN KOSOVA. THE NATO INTERVENTION AND THE INTERNATIONAL ADMINISTRATION OF KOSOVA.

- V.1. A Kosova free of Albanians, an important part of Serb Strategy for expansion and domination of the Western Balkans.
- V.2. the Lifting of Kosova's autonomy in, the beginnings of the peaceful resistance movement and the parallel structures of government.
- V.3. factors that led to the failure of peaceful resistance. The creation of the K.L.A.,
- V.4. Kosova, international diplomacy and armed conflict.
- V.5. the ICTY and the Kosova conflict.
- V.6. Kosova and the political conflict in Serbia.
- V.7. Holbrook mission in Belgrade and the failure of the Rambouillet talks.
- V.8. the Internationalization of the war in Kosova and NATO intervention in Yugoslavia. (March 1998 - June 1999).
- V.9. the "Horseshoe operation" and ethnic cleansing in Kosova.
- V.10. the dynamic of NATO operations and the end of war in Kosova.
- V.11. Kosova, a modern protectorate of the United Nations.

- V.12. the Kosova War and the introduction of new developments in the geopolitical situation.

CHAPTER VI

THE CREATION OF THE INDEPENDENT STATE OF KOSOVA. THE NEW ALBANIAN GEOPOLITICAL SITUATION IN THE BALKANS.

- VI.1. Kosova, the status quo and regional security
VI.2. Kosova in the trap of options
VI.3. the Status of Kosova amidst Serb propaganda of religious war and islamophobia
VI.4. Russia and its role in the negotiations over Kosova.
VI.5. Kosova, a sui-generis case and why its independence does not undermine the international order.
VI.6. the independence of Kosova and the tectonic development on Balkans geopolitics
VI.7. the Ahtisari plan and the proclamation of the Kosova independence

CHAPTER VII

THE INTER-ETHNIC CONFLICT IN MACEDONIA, THE OHRID AGREEMENT AND THE SECURITY CHALLENGES

- VII.1. the geography of Macedonia
VII.2. the geopolitics of the Albanians of Macedonia
VII.3. the historical dimension of the inter-ethnic conflict
VII.4. Inter-ethnic relations following the independence of Macedonia. The threats to its security
VII.5. Macedonia's geopolitical environment 2000-2001
VII.6. The K.L.A. and the conflict of 2001
VII.7. the Albanian-Macedonian agreement of Ohrid
VII.8. the implementation of the Ohrid agreement and the future of Macedonia.

CHAPTER VIII

THE ALBANIAN NATIONAL ISSUE AND REGIONAL GEOPOLITICS; OUR NATIONAL SECURITY POLICY

- VIII.1. the Albanian geography in the Balkans.
VIII.2. the Albanian renaissance and regional geopolitics.

- VIII.4. the Albanian national issue amidst the Greek “Megali Idea” and Serb “Nacertania” (Greater Serbia).
- VIII.5. the Albanian national movement, and the proclamation of independence.
- VIII.6. the Albanian national issues between the two WW.
- VIII.7. WW2 and the Albanians.
- VIII.8. the Cold War and the frozen Albanian National Issue.
- VIII.9. the Dissolution of Yugoslavia, the Ohrid Agreement and the reinvigoration of the Albanian national Issue.
- VIII.10. national Security Policies and the Albanian National Issue.

CHAPTER IX

RUSSIA, THE ROLE PLAYED IN THE GEOPOLITICS AND SECURITY IN SOUTHEAST EUROPE.

- XV.1. Russia and geopolitics in the region during the Ottoman Rule
- XV.2. the Russian influence on regional geopolitics up to the conclusion of WW2
- XV.3. the relations of USSR with the region during the Cold War period
- XV.4. the disintegration of USSR and regional geopolitics.
- XV.5. the Balkans and Russian Oil funded geopolitics
- XV.6. Russia and the Albanians